SAVE WOMEN'S LIVES

Millennium Development GOAL 5

IMPROVE MATERNAL HEALTH

Reduce by three quarters, between 1990 and 2015, the maternal mortality ratio.

Achieve, by 2015, universal access to reproductive health.

JANUARY 2011

More than 350,000 women die annually from complications during pregnancy or childbirth.

Maternal mortality remains unacceptably high, even though most maternal deaths could be avoided. More than 350,000 women die annually from complications during pregnancy or childbirth, almost all of them - 99 per cent - in developing countries.

A close-up photograph of a woman and her young child. The woman, on the left, has dark skin and her hair is styled in intricate braids. She is wearing a thin gold necklace with a small pendant and a blue and white patterned top. She has a calm, steady gaze directed at the camera. To her right, a young child with dark, curly hair is looking off to the side with a slightly open mouth and a curious expression. The background is filled with a vibrant, multi-colored beaded curtain in shades of green, red, and white, hanging in front of what appears to be a doorway or an outdoor structure. The lighting is natural, highlighting the textures of the woman's hair and the child's skin.

FEBRUARY 2011

In sub-Saharan Africa, a woman's maternal mortality risk is 1 in 30.

'In the year 2000, WE promised to make the world a better place by agreeing to achieve the MILLENNIUM DEVELOPMENT GOALS (MDGs). Between now and 2015, we must make sure that promises made become promises kept. The consequences of doing otherwise are profound: death, illness and despair, needless suffering, lost opportunities for millions upon millions of people. We must hold each other accountable! Women deliver enormous social and economic benefits for their families, communities and nations. Investing to improve maternal health and save women's lives – and achieve Millennium Development Goal 5 – is the right thing to do.

SOS Malta is currently participating in a EuropeAid project Save Women's Lives: a campaign to raise public awareness on Millennium Development Goal 5 (Improve Maternal Health). The overall objective of the project is to contribute towards reducing poverty by promoting maternal health, influencing public opinion, and enhancing support among decision makers as a key to reaching the MDG5 by 2015.
